NORTH CAROLINA MAKES THE BIGGEST PLAYS DOWN THE STRETCH TO SNATCH NCAA CHAMPIONSHIP FROM GONZAGA

HARD TO CONSOLE
The Gonzaga basketball team tries to find perspective in a gut-wrenching loss in the NCAA championship game.

DIFFERENCE MAKER
No. 1 seeds Gonzaga and North Carolina were locked in a back-and-forth game, but Tar Heels made key plays at the end.

BIG PICTURE
Larger-than-life center Przemek Karnowski did not play his best in his final game as a Zag, but his legacy remains rock solid.

DAN PELLE/THE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW
Gonzaga guard Nigel William-Goss has his shot blocked by North Carolina forward Kennedy Meeks in the closing seconds of the NCAA national championship game on Monday in Glendale, Arizona. The blocked shot led to a breakaway dunk by Justin Jackson to seal the Tar Heels’ win over the Zags.
